REVISED THIRD SECTOR GOVERNANCE CODE FOR 2024

The Scottish Governance Code for the Third Sector has been updated. After a global pandemic, digital change, growing environmental challenges, and a demand for greater equality, diversity, and inclusion, the new Code reflects how our understanding of good governance and stakeholders' expectations have evolved. The Code has maintained and strengthened the five broad principles of good governance that act as a point of reference for trustees in carrying out their role: Organisational Purpose; Leadership; Behaviour; Control and Risk Management; Effectiveness.

CHANGES TO CHARITY LAW

The Charities (Regulation and Administration) (Scotland) Act 2023 makes some important changes that will affect all charities registered with OSCR. The Act's overall aim is to strengthen and update the current legal framework for charities registered in Scotland and increase transparency and accountability.

OSCR will have increased powers, including:

- maintaining a publicly searchable record of charity trustees
- introducing new criteria for the disqualification of charity trustees and extending disqualification provisions to charity senior management roles
- appointing interim trustees and issuing positive directions to charities
- requiring all charities in the register to have and retain a connection to Scotland
- removing unresponsive charities that fail to submit statements of account from the Register
- publishing accounts for all charities in the Scottish Register
- creating a record of charity mergers for the transfer of legacies

For more information take a look at Anderson Strathern's information, or visit OSCR - What do the changes to Scottish charity law mean for you?

SCVO will host a free lunchtime webinar on 28 February where you can ask your own questions to charity lawyer Gillian Harkness-McKinlay.

REPORTS & PUBLICATIONS

GREEN LAND INVESTMENT IN RURAL SCOTLAND: SOCIAL AND ECONOMIC IMPACTS

A flood of green investment into Scottish land holdings could deepen existing perceptions of what divides landowners and rural communities if new understanding, policies and regulations don't keep up, a study by researchers at The James Hutton Institute has found. The Scottish Government-funded research investigated rural communities where there had been major investment in land use change for green purposes, such as rewilding or tree planting.

The next People's Panel in 2024 with our randomly selected 25 panel members will be reviewing Section 91 of the Climate Change (Scotland) Act 2009 for the Net Zero, Energy, and Transport Committee. The role of the Committee is to scrutinise the Scottish Government's policies and progress towards meeting climate change targets across all government departments and to scrutinise transport, energy, net zero and circular economy, and most environmental policy. The Committee is deploying the use of the People's Panel to support its post-legislative scrutiny of Section 91 of the Climate Change (Scotland) Act 2009.

Delivered across 2 weekends in February and March panellists will hear from experts and communities across Scotland to help them answer the following questions:

- How effective has the Scottish Government been at engaging the public on climate change and Scotland's climate change targets?
- What else (if anything) could the Scottish Government do to inform and involve the public to help meet Scotland's climate change targets?

On completion of the panel they will produce a set of recommendations that will be incorporated in a report that the panel will present to the Committee. This Panel, along with two further panels in 2024 and 2025, will also contribute to ongoing work in developing the Parliaments deliberative democracy processes and methods.

GENDER REPRESENTATION ON PUBLIC BOARDS \(AMENDMENT\) \(SCOTLAND\) BILL

Closes: 29 January 2024

The Scottish Government has said that the Bill will amend the Gender Representation on Public Boards (Scotland) Act 2018 to remove the definition of "woman" in section 2.

The Scottish Government has taken the view that there are no suitable alternative approaches to removing the definition from the statute book following the Court of Session's decision. The Scottish Government believes the amendments in this Bill will ensure that the definition, which no longer has legal effect, is removed from the face of the statute book.

The specific definition that this Bill will remove is:

"woman" includes a person who has the protected characteristic of gender reassignment (within the meaning of section 7 of the Equality Act 2010) if, and only if, the person is living as a woman and is proposing to undergo, is undergoing or has undergone a process (or part of a process) for the purpose of becoming female".

WELLBEING AND SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT BILL

Closes: 14 February 2024

The Scottish Government consultation for a Wellbeing and Sustainable Development Bill is open until 14th February. DELIVERING NET ZERO FOR SCOTLAND'S BUILDINGS - HEAT IN BUILDINGS BILL: CONSULTATION

Closes: 8 March 2024

The Scottish Government is seeking your views on proposals for greener and warmer buildings in Scotland. The Heat in Buildings Bill: consultation is open for responses until Friday 8 March 2024.

Clean heating systems will replace polluting heating systems in Scotland's homes and buildings by 2045 under proposals published by the Scottish Government.

Under legislation to be introduced in 2025, those buying new homes or buildings would be asked to move to a "clean" heating system, such as a heat pump or connection to a heat network, within a fixed period of time following that purchase. Minimum energy efficiency standards for Scotland's homes could also be introduced to make them warmer and less expensive to heat.
